Uncork Bottle
o' Pep at S.T.C.Lee Meek and Vesper Briant Are Chosen Cheer Leaders at Big Assembly.

Lee Meek was chosen cheer leader at assembly, Nov. 4. His assistants are: Vesper Briant, Ruth Bookman, Carl Ferguson, Luther DeMoss, and best of all the student body and faculty.

After Lee became chairman of the meeting, he took the liberty to call on some of the faculty and students for speeches. Surprises are delightful but some are better than others, but anyway those called on responded in good spirit. The principal message of them all was that we must beat Tarkio and the only way to do it is for us all to play the game. The football boys are our representatives in the game proper.

Organized cheering and singing is better than unorganized. And one need not be afraid that the yell does not mean anything. It is not the meaning of the yell but the pep behind it that gives encouragement to the team and shows the real school spirit.

The remainder of the hour was spent in learning and practicing our yells and songs.

Have you been near Perrin Hall lately? Then you have heard the yells and peppy songs floating out from that place. In the dining room at dinner each evening the folks at the student table have been showing their enthusiasm for the Bearcats by causing the whole house to vibrate with their deafening yells.

Did you also hear the football rally Thursday night headed by the girls of Perrin Hall? Students, never let another opportunity go by without each one in line. No one within earshot of Main Street could have any doubt about there being a game scheduled for the morrow, a game played by the Bearcats and every student.

If you were not there, you missed one great time. But this is not time for regrets, be there next time.

Mr. Foster on Program at Kansas City.

Mr. Henry A. Foster will deliver an address at the Missouri State Teachers Association, in Kansas City, Nov. 11, at 1:30 P. M. His subject is "Current History: How shall we teach it?"

Miss Reid, Y. W. C. A. Secretary Visits the College Nov. 3-4.

Miss Rebecca Reid, Y. W. field Secretary for the South Central section visited our College November 3, 4. At the regular weekly meeting of the Y. W. the program was: Devotions—Led by Esther Foley. Vocal Solo—Vesper Briant.

Miss Reid made a very interesting talk; a summary of which follows: "We should get a glimpse of the world conditions and see woman's relation to them. There are many calls to our home fields and to our foreign fields. Letters have been received from several missionary boards in the United States saying they have the money to send a number of people to foreign fields, where there is a great crying need for workers. All they lack to be able to answer these calls is the people to send. There are many people who can see the small things in life, but why can't we launch out and grasp the bigger and better things in life? What is living? Why! living is serving, or serving is living.

Do we find God a reality in our lives or do we still see God as we did with our childhood vision, as a mere abstract personage sitting on a high golden throne watching us to see when we did a wrong, just to get a chance to punish us? The trouble with the world today is that we have too many anemic, half-fed Christians. We only live half-heartedly. If we would feed our souls as we feed our bodies we could live a good, full, Christian life and let our light shine brightly for others. Probably we could compare our lives to an old-fashioned smoky lamp chimney. We rub and rub on the outside to remove the smoke, but find this does not remove the smoke, as it is on the inside. The same with our lives, we try often to live a good outward life, but what about our inner lives? On the inside is the place to begin. If we begin to clean our lamp chimney, as it were, from the inside rather than from the outside our light of Christian love and service would shine a great deal farther.

Will we measure up to our call, are we willing to sacrifice, are we willing to follow the master? If we are, we will be stronger and the world will be better by our having lived it."

At this hour the association enjoyed to the fullest extent, two violin numbers given by C. D. Kutschinski. Miss Reid met the cabinet at 12:20 Wednesday and helped to complete the plans for the year. She also met the cabinet members individually Thursday for conferences concerning

Our Present Athletic Field is the Site of a Future Farm.

"Are we to have two athletic fields," "What is to become of the old athletic field when the new one is completed?" and "Why do we need a new field?" are questions that have been heard since the work on the new athletic field began. Here is the answer:

There is to be a group of farm buildings erected near the present athletic field and the field itself will eventually be an orchard. This group of buildings is to consist of a residence, one building for the garage, a work house, and power house, an implement house, a granary, a hog house, and a barn.

The residence is to be a modern country home. The farmer or caretaker will live in it. The barn is to have a stock judging arena where the students will have the best opportunity to judge stock.

A driveway leading to the residence will be constructed. This drive will branch off to the north of the road just west of the college, in front of the first memorial arch.

Work on some of these buildings has already begun. The foundation for the implement house is completed and the foundation for the hog house is under construction. Walk out and look around. There is a great deal more to this institution than just this building and the long walk.

College Is Closed Nov. 11-12.

The College classes will be dismissed Nov. 11 and 12 so that the faculty may attend the State Teachers Association at Kansas City.

New Assistant Librarian Arrives.

Miss Sarah Hougham of Manhattan, Kansas is our new assistant librarian. Miss Hougham is a graduate of the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan and of the Library School of the University of Illinois. While attending the University of Illinois, she specialized in college and university library work.

Since the time of her graduation, Miss Hougham has been doing library extension work in Illinois and in Kansas.

Miss Brunner addressed the women of the W. C. T. U. Oct. 28 on "Citizenship and the Fifteen Amendments."

their work.

Plans are being made for very interesting programs this winter—everyone come.

Bear Cats Give
Tarkio a Fight

College Holds Tarkio to 14-0—No Score Made Until Last Quarter.

One of the best games that was ever witnessed on the S. T. C. gridiron was played Friday, Nov. 5 when the Bear Cats met Tarkio. This game can hardly be judged by the final score, 14-0 in favor of Tarkio.

The whistle blew promptly at 2:30 o'clock with the Bearcats kicking off. Tarkio tried several end runs without much success, while the Bearcats plunged through the line for about 10 yards each time. The first quarter ended without a score.

During the entire second quarter the ball seesawed up and down the field with neither side able to score.

At the beginning of the third quarter Webb took the ball twice in succession and made about 40 yards but the Bearcats were then forced to punt. Puckett showed what his toe was made of when he punted over the goal line twice in succession. It looked as if the Bearcats were going to score when Pickens carried the ball within 8 yards of the goal. As misfortune would have it the ball was fumbled on the next down and the quarter ended with the ball in the middle of the field.

It was in the last quarter that Tarkio made her touchdowns. The first one was made by completing a forward pass over the goal line. The Bearcats then received the ball but lost it in an attempt to forward pass. Tarkio completed another forward pass within two yards of the goal and plunged it over for another touchdown.

McCoy kicked both goals.

The entire S. T. C. team deserve the greatest praise for the way in which they played; as the coach says they are the real wonder team. Pickens and Webb were the main features in the back field, while Puckett and Captain Miller played a good game as usual. In the line the Wells Brothers made a wonderful showing and no one would ever have thought anything was wrong with Charlie's knee. Kirby held up his reputation at center and Lawton and Boatman played real ball guard. Special credit is due Mike because the day before he was on crutches but that did not keep him out of the game. Steiger and Hays made a good showing at end; they are both new men whose work is very Perrin Hall Celebrated Hallowe'en.

The Perrin Hall boarders were surprised to see a darkened building when they went to dinner, Saturday evening, Oct. 30. Some were in the act of going back up town when they were reminded that it was probably the occasion of the annual Hallowe'en party.

As they entered the hall they were met at the door by two ghosts who motioned them into one of the parlors where they entertained each other until dinner was served.

At six o'clock the guests were told to follow the ghosts who led them thru the office into the dining room. The dining room appeared as if the spirit of Hallowe'en had taken full charge, for there was nothing wanting. Upon the walls were artistically arranged autumn leaves, black cats, witches and other symbols of Hallowe'en. Underneath the lights was a shock of corn fodder with a lighted jack-o'-lantern peeping from between the corn stocks. The lights were overhung with autumn leaves and subdued by orange paper. Each table was decorated by different centerpieces appropriate for the occasion. The room showed up beautifully in the mellow light. The dining room girls wore hallowe'en caps and quaintly decorated aprons.

For dessert was served pumpkin pie, gingerbread and cider.

A most happy time was enjoyed by everyone.

WOMEN.

A woman is queer, there's no doubt about that,

She hates to be thin, and she hates to be fat.

One minute it's laughter, the next it's a cry,

You can't understand her, however you try.

But there's one thing about her which everyone knows—

A woman's not dressed till she powders her nose.

BEARCATS GIVE TARKIO A FIGHT

pleasing. Mapel and Lonog played good ball when they were substituted at different positions.

The Tarkio line-up was: Cap. Littell, center; Barr and Williams, guards, Pollick and Dragoo, ends; Kyle and Patterson, half backs; McCoy, quarter, Thom, full back.

Lampske of Northwestern refereed, and Zeigler of Maryville high school umpired.

A large crowd witnessed the game and much pep was shown. S. T. C. did some real yelling under the leadership of Lee Meek, Vesper Briant, and Ruth Bookman. Between halves the girls of the college carrying white mums and green ribbon streamers formed the letters S. T. C., while the band played.

Friday, Nov. 5, was a bad day for Missouri teachers colleges as far as football was concerned. William Jewell defeated Springfield 13-0; Missouri Wesleyan defeated Kirksville "real things."

12-0 and Tarkio defeated Maryville 14-0.

Missouri Wesleyan and Rolla School of Mines are tied for the lead in the conference.

Skidmore Has Excellent Program.

The Teachers Meeting at Skidmore held on Saturday, October 23, 1920, was from many points a most gratifying one. It was presided over by Cleo Richards ("Big Bill") who is principal of the schools at Graham and who is also a delegate from his section to the State Teachers Meeting to be held in Kansas City, November 11-13.

The local talent that furnished the music and reading and the paper "The Importance of the School in the Work of Americanization," was certainly a credit to Skidmore. The paper mentioned was read by Miss Tarpley and made a strong appeal to the teaching force to incorporate ideals of Democracy in the schools. The solo, "Thinking of You," by Miss Neva Carden was well rendered, and enthusiastically received. The humorous reading "Back in Squashville," by Miss Dollie Logan revealed some clever talent; and the second solo, Tosti's Masterpiece, "Goodbye" by Eula Miller was full of tenderness.

Mr. Harry A. Miller's address that followed, upon "The Bulwarks of Democracy," fit into the spirit of the occasion beautifully and rounded out a program that was elevating and inspiring. His appeal was three-fold:

- (1) Be a home maker.
- (2) Be a church supporter.
- (3) Be a school booster.

The crowd was small but interested and attentive. A second meeting is called for December 11th.

Music Department Records Must be Returned.

Necessity demands that a few words should be said in regard to the records which are borrowed from the music department. A few weeks ago on two different occasions, records were borrowed, but not returned to the music room, as they should have been. Finally when the instructor located them, three were broken and nothing at all had been said in regard to it. Hereafter in such cases the records will have to be paid for, so they may be replaced in the equipment, since they are all representative types of music and are needed in the various courses. The department is glad to loan the records if the proper care is taken and they are returned to the room.

Mr. P. G. Holden, who was instructor in Vitalized Agriculture here last summer has written a book on "How to Vitalize the Teaching of Agriculture in the Public Schools." The key note of this book is to teach

DEPARTMENTAL NOTES.

Chemistry.

A new drying oven has been added to the Chemistry department. This will aid very materially in the work there.

English.

The composition classes made the clever posters which have appeared in the various class rooms and corridors this week. So many admonitions to improve your speech is having its effect upon the entire school.

The contest between the two classes is causing every student to speak much more correctly than usual.

Debate.

The interest in the debating class is still growing. An enthusiastic discussion of the immigration question was given last Wednesday. Today, each student outlined his own convictions and brought to class a brief with definite issues.

Expression.

The class in Expression 61a has been making an intensive study of scenes from the School for Scandal by Sheridan. Some very interesting work in the line of interpretation of character is being done by the class.

Art.

The methods class have made, in cardboard construction work some attractive desk sets consisting of an envelope box, scrap box and blotter pad.

Biology.

The courses to be offered in Biology for the winter quarter will include the following:

- 11—Nature Study.
- 12—Bacteriology.
- 13—College Biology.
- 1B—Physiology.
- 103—Genetics.
- 151—Teaching of Biology.

French.

The classes in French have subscribed to "Le Petit Journal." This is a bi-monthly periodical published by the Double-day Page Company, compiled from current French papers and magazines. These papers will be reserved in Room 313 for all students of French.

French 61a has just completed the study of "La Belle France," a geographical survey of France centering around the experiences of two Americans traveling there. The class is now beginning the classic "Peecheur D'Islande" by Pierre Loti.

Home Economics.

The sewing class has a very interesting display of finished garments in the glass case on the second floor. The first project was made-over garments, involving ripping, cleaning, dyeing, darning, patching and combining with new materials in some instances. The second project was a waist and skirt showing the various uses of silk and wool as a textile.

The Value of Class Form Vocal Instruction. Some Phases of the Work.

Specific vocal instruction in class is an exceedingly valuable educational measure.

Before this movement, however, received the general recognition to which it is entitled and becomes universally adopted, a condition must exist which, as yet, is not much in evidence, livelier interest and a more intelligent view of the need of specific voice work for young people on the part of public educators throughout the country.

The principal things to be accomplished in such a course are:

- Development of breathing.
- Development of musical tones.
- Correct enunciation.
- The study and artistic singing of suitable songs.

All recitations to be characterized by: simplicity, attractiveness, practicability, brevity, and sympathetic interest on the part of the instructor in the work of the class.

A year or two of the voice training like this would be of great and lasting benefit to every student taking it. Those especially gifted would not only have a valuable preliminary training but, having tested their talents, would feel no doubt as to the advisability of pursuing farther vocal study if they so desired.

This form of vocal instruction is also an economic measure. It provides a way for the student to try out his or her talent with very little expense and prove conclusively whether further vocal study is worth while. In any event, the student will have received substantial benefit in the way of an improved speaking voice, apart from the singing voice.

Class form vocal instruction arouses a healthy competitive spirit. The entire class gets the benefit of listening to songs and the interchange of many and different ideas.

We have a group now, meeting twice a week, and already the results are very gratifying.

—Margaret L. James.

The Ideal Student.

The ideal student has faith, faith in his College, faith in his fellow students, and faith in the judgment of his faculty. He has faith in his football team and his society and supports them both.

You can tell him in his classes. He may or he may not be the teacher's favorite or the brightest student in his class, but he takes a serious attitude towards his work and conscientiously tries to improve and broaden his store of knowledge. He is willing to learn from everything and everybody.

You do not see him parading the streets at late hours at night, neither do you see him hanging around the pool rooms or candy kitchen.

He does not go to the picture show every night. He is the delight of his teachers, for he is interested and he tries.

His landlady finds him strictly honest, punctual, and orderly.

He works diligently at his lessons, not primarily for grades, but because of his desire for knowledge.

He does not allow the grind of school to destroy his originality or personality, nor does he allow his originality or personality to hamper his school work.

—Warrensburg Student.

The teachers, principals and supervisors of the elementary and high schools of Omaha, Nebr., have organized a Forum whose object is to "promote the cause of democratic education, to cultivate in the community a deeper sense of responsibility to the child, to promote the teaching profession by unifying its interests and fostering fellowship among its members." Less than two years old, it is strong and influential. Meetings are held once a month—discussions, music and addresses making up the program. Social activities are not overlooked; evening parties, outings and hikes strengthening the feeling of comradeship, and Saturday lunches with interesting exercises are held at many of the leading hotels and clubs.

THE STROLLER.

The Stroller has a cousin located at Dillon, Mont., his name is the Justifier. Another relative has her head-quarter at Flagler, Colo. His name is the Goblin. The Stroller is proud of his relatives but her sympathy goes out to them because a person holding such a position does not seem to get any help at all. The Stroller has asked time and again that anyone who knows a good joke turn it in to room 303. The Stroller cannot be everyplace at one time and often some joke that everyone would enjoy is never known.

But the Stroller did notice that last Monday Mr. Hawkins seemed to have nothing to do. He was strolling the halls too, and worst of all—his class was waiting for him. But as he did not arrive within the allotted time the class left. The Stroller has decided that maybe the faculty are human after all.

As the Stroller passed the door of the room where the faculty were assembled last Tuesday, he heard the re-election of Miss Winn and Mr. Hawkins as delegates for the State Association. What next? The Stroller is wondering if the election of these two about a month ago was only a straw vote. Aren't the faculty queer? The Stroller is glad he is nothing but a Senior.

Listen, have you heard that Lucile Wright and Mildred Shinabarger are going to quit school? Well they are, because The Stroller heard them say so. They are afraid they will become so well educated that no men will want to marry them. The Stroller thinks that even at that, they can easily remain in school several years.

Did you attend the pep meeting Thursday? The Stroller did and she thinks that this college has real school spirit. But she did so want to hear Lee Meek sing that song.

The Stroller strolled into the west gym one afternoon last week and found Carl Ferguson there with about fifty girls. Oh, yes, Carl was playing his cornet but the Stroller wonders if it was merely for the love of music that Carl was a tootin' that horn.

Can you imagine Paul Pickens being measured by the bushel? In response to this query over the phone, "Did you want Paul Pickens?" the Stroller heard, "yes, I want fall pippins, what's the price?"

The Stroller has decided he wants to get married instead of being a teacher. He was on the train when the team started to Fulton and saw Mrs. Rice give "Little Bobbie" money to pay his debts. But the Stroller almost changed his mind about getting married when he saw Joe Wells hang around the telegraph office and heard Mike Lawton rave about the moon.

The Stroller has not had such a good time for ages as he had in the football rally Thursday evening. He has had psychology and he made use of the occasion to note the various reactions made by the townspeople to the extraordinary event. As he marched down the isles of the various places of business some proprietors greeted her with friendly smiles, others were surprised into inactivity and a very small percent just tolerated the performance and actually ignored the appreciation expressed by the leaders. The Stroller believes that that some folks need to apply themselves strenuously to change the path of preferred conduct in regard to this stimuli in order that the response may be pleasurable to themselves.

The Stroller had an examination in psychology the very next day, she hopes Miss Arnett appreciated his application of the subject to daily life.

Conditions In Montana Are Good.

It was a notable privilege in September to enjoy a campaign which took me into fifteen cities in Montana, so that in the last four years I have had the privilege of knowing most of the counties in the state educationally.

The county superintendents are hustlers. Rural teachers are difficult to secure in Montana and it requires much perseverance on the part of the county superintendents to keep the schools supplied. Every county superintendent in Montana is a woman.

A new factor in public education is the county nurse. They are all efficient as far as my observation goes.

Montana leads the nation in the number of school dormitories, and in the application of the dormitory idea to the children of rural districts. The county provides the building and pays the matron who runs the home.

High schools often have made arrangements with the local churches to conduct educational Bible classes for the study of the Bible, history, literature and teachings.

Credit is given for this work which must be as definitely exacting as any other study; attention is given to musical activities as well.

The real reason why Montana has forged ahead of forty-seven states in the Union, standing number one in eternal principles of educational fundamentals, is because there is so much new life, and fresh activity in the elimination of decayed material in school courses and such high speed in the introduction of real education into scholastic traditions.—From Journal of Education.

Demonstration School Notes.

The Demonstration School had a party in the kindergarten room Friday, Oct. 29. The program consisted of two dances, "The Muffin Man" and "Labbie Lew" by the first and second grades. The "Brownie" and "Shoemakers" dance was given by the third and fourth grades.

Harry Trullinger gave the poem "Seein' Things." This was followed by a play by the fifth and sixth grades. Next a play written by the members of the seventh and eighth grade was presented.

The children then served their guests with pop-corn.

Miss Dow was in St. Joseph Saturday, Oct. 30, where an extension class in French has been organized.

Selling is Giving Your Ideas to Another—Mr. Griffin Will Teach Us How.

The extension of the scope of the Commercial department of the College is now well under way. Several new classes are being added from time to time, and the end in view is a four-year commercial course for the school.

For the winter quarter, Mr. Griffin is planning a course in Salesmanship. The course will take in a general survey the fundamentals of the art of selling, not merchandise only but ideas and services. The course will include the psychology of selling, retail selling, store management, sales management, and sales campaigns. Special books for the class have been ordered and every effort is being made to make this one of the most practical courses offered any where. Special reading and outside observation will be furnished by the department.

This course should attract students who are interested in a business or professional career, whether they are taking the commercial course or not. Teachers, doctors, lawyers, and all other classes of American society must sell their goods, their service or their ideas in some way; consequently this chance to improve methods of presenting ideas to the public, should not be overlooked. The course is of Sophomore rank.
